Introduction to Student Reps

"Every student has the right to voice their opinions about their studies, but it is important that these are collected and used in an effective and structured way. This is why we have Course Reps!

It doesn't matter if you are studying at undergraduate, postgraduate or research level, you will elect course reps each year to represent your Student Voice.

Reps gather your academic feedback about what works well, and not so well, and how issues may be resolved on your course, and channel this feedback through formal and informal meetings, discussions and forums with University staff.

Reps are crucial in providing feedback to your University, your Students' Union and back to the students themselves. Through this partnership, feedback is used to strengthen all aspects of your academic experience, ranging from Curriculum Design, Assessment and Feedback, Learning Resources, Opening Times, Course Trips and support and guidance around your course.

Reps exist to ensure that the Student Voice is authentically represented every step of the way. And by becoming a rep, you'll join a community of over 300 students committed to making a positive impact throughout your studies; trained and supported by your Students' Union."
